PRESENTS A

SPICE GRINDER

SUPPLIES NEEDED:

Blank 2.75 to 3" square

15/16, 1, 1-9/16, & 1-3/4 Forstner drill bits

Drill chuck for lathe

Epoxy for final assembly

There are a multitude of pepper mills available on the market today, from crank top, push top, deluxe with top knob adjustment and battery powered mills.

I have chosen the Crush Grind mill that is available in most catalogs, but I purchased mine from Craft Supplies USA.

Because these are made with a ceramic mechanism they can be used for either salt or pepper. They can be easily made in almost any size and don't require any nuts, bolts, or screws for final assembly.

One of the nicest features is that there isn't a specific size required for the hardware. There are two kit sizes, ten or sixteen inch. I have chosen the smaller 10". As time allows, I will attempt to turn a complete mill, adding pepper corns, and grind a bit.
